By agreeing to these terms and conditions you undertake to keep as confidential the username and password assigned to you and to notify us if you have any reason to suspect that your username and password is in use by another individual. Unauthorised use of a subscriber's username and password is a breach of this agreement and a violation of the copyrights of LNG journal. If we, for any reason, believe that the use of your username and password has exceeded the single license, single user terms, we may terminate this agreement without advance notice.

Corporate, multi-user subscriptions

Each set of username and password will be assigned to a single individual to be used by that individual only and may be limited to a single IP address at our discretion. The quantity of subscriptions purchased determines the quantity of individual users who are granted an access license.
